Fire Works Proclamation.

Christmas will soon be with us It is against the LAW to shoot fire works of any kind inside of City limits. Now I want the children to have a good time. Now let all take their fire works and go home and have their fun and not on any of the streets of the city.

For as every one knows it is very dangerous, not only to children themselves, but people with teams. Our friends and neighbors coming in from the country want some assurance that they may come to town without danger to themselves or teams. It makes a more kindly feeling between people to know that all feel considerate toward one another. I shall ask the City marshall to enforce the laws. So please keep off the No tuition will be asked and streets to shoot your fire works.

More Pharaohs Needed in Agriculture. Farm products have no credit and perhaps can never have on a permanent and satisfactory basis unless we build warehouses, cold storage plants, elevators, etc., for without storage and credit facilities, the south is compelled to dump its crop on the market at harvest time. The Farmers' Unions in the cotton producing states have for the past ten years persistently advocated the construction of storage facilities. We have built during this pacity of approximately 4,000,000 bales and looking backward the results would seem encouraging, but looking forward, we are able to house less than one-third of the crop and ware houses without a credit system lose 90 per cent of their usefulness. The problem is a gigantic one-too great for the farmer to solve unaided. He must have the assistance of the bank-

Prices have been bayoneted, values riddled and markets decimated by the battling hosts of the eastern hemisphere until the American farmer has suffered a war loss of $400,000,000, and a bale of cotton brave enough to enter a European port must pay a ransom of half its value or go to prison until the war is over.

Constantinople Often Rechristened.

Petrograd will have to change for close on 800 years. Byzantium, like Rome, was built on seven hills, and this resemblance led Septimus Severus to rechristen it Nova Roma. On making the city the capital of the Roman empire, Constantine the Great bestowed his own name upon it, and ever since it has been known as Constantinople in the Western world. The name, however, is ignored by Orientals, who have called it Istambul and Stambul since its capture by the Turks in 1453. - London Chronicle.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S MESSAG

The Chief Executive Deplores the Lack of Ships, Declares That the Covernment Must Open the Gales of Trade and Urges Passage of the Pending Shipping Bill - Rural Credits and Safety at Sea. Self Government For Filipinos Again Hecommended.

OLLOWING is President Wilson's annual message, delivered at the beginning of the short term of the Sixty-third

Gentlemen of the Congress-The session apon which you are now entering will be the closing session of the Sixty-third congress, a congress, I venture to say, which will long be remembered for the great body of thoughtful and constructive work which it has done in loval response to the thought and needs of the country. I should like in this address to review the notable record and try to make adequate assessment of it, but no doubt we stand too near the work that has been done and are ourselves too much part of it to play the part of historians toward it.

Moreover, our thoughts are now more of the future than of the past. While we have worked at our tasks of peace the circumstances of the whole age have been aftered by war. What we have done for our own land and our own people we did with the best that was in us, whether of character or of intelligence, with sober enthusiasm and a confidence in the principles upon which we were acting which sustained us at every step of the difficult undertak-But it is done. It has passed from our hands. It is now an established part of the legislation of the country. Its usefulness, its effects will disclose themselves in experience. What chiefly strikes us now, as we look about us during these closing days of a year which will be forever memorable in the history of the world, is that we face new tasks, have been facing them these six months, must face them in the mouths to come-face them without partisan feeling, like men who have forgotten everything but a common duty and the fact that we are representatives of a great people whose thought is not of us, but of what America owes to berself and to all mankind in such circumstances as these upon which we look amazed and anxious.

War has interrupted the means of trade not only, but also the processes of production. In Europe it is destroying men and resources wholesale and upon a scale unprecedented and appalling. There is reason to fear that the time is near, if it be not already at hand, when several of the countries of Europe will find it difficult to do for their people what they have hitherto been always easily able to do-many essential and fundamental things. At any rate, they will need our belp and our manifold services as they have never needed them before, and we should be ready, more fit and ready than we have ever been.

AMERICA FACES NEW MARKETS FOR TRADE.

Merchant Marine Must Be Built Up to Meet Opportunity.

It is of equal consequence that the nations whom Europe has usually supplied with innumerable articles of manufacture and commerce of which they are in constant need and without which their economic development halts and stands still can now get only a small part of what they formerly imported and eagerly look to us to supply their all but empty markets. This is particplarly true of our own neighbors, the States, great and small, of Central and South America Cheir lines of trade have hitherto run chiefly athwart the seas, not to our ports, but to the ports of Great Britain and of the older conthreat of Europe 1 do not stop to inquire why or to make any comment on probable causes. What interests us just now is not the explanation, but the fact and our duty and opportunity in the presence of it. Here are markets which we must supply, and we must find the means of action The United States, this great people for whom we spenk and act, should be ready as never before to serve itself and to serve mankind, ready with its resources, its energies, its forces of production and its means of distribu-

It is a very practical matter, a matter of ways and means. We have the resources, but are we fully ready to use them? And, if we can make ready what we have, have we the means at hand to distribute it? We are not fully ready; neither have we the means of distribution. We are willing, but we are not fully able. We have the wish to serve and to serve greatly, gen erously But we are not prepared as we should be. We are not ready to mobilize our resources at once. We are not prepared to use them immediately and at their best, without delay and without waste.

To speak plainly, we have grossly erred in the way in which we have stunted and hindered the development of our merchant marine. And pow. when we need ships, we have not got them. We have year after year debated, without end or conclusion, the best policy to pursue with regard to the use of the ores and forests and water powers of our national domain in the rich states of the west, when we should have acted, and they are still tocked up. The key is still turned upon them, the door shut fast at which thousands of vigorous men, full of initiative, knock clamorously for admittance. The water power of our navigable streams outside the national domain also, even in the eastern states. where we have worked and planned for generations, is still not used as it might be, because we will and we won't; because the laws we have made do not intelligently balance encouragement against restraint. We withhold by regulation.

I have come to ask you to remedy and correct these mistakes and omissions, even at this short session of a congress which would certainly seem to have done all the work that could reasonably be expected of it. The time and the circumstances are extraordinary, and so must our efforts be

Fortunately two great measures, finely conceived, the one to unlock, with proper safeguards, the resources of the national domain, the other to encourage the use of the navigable waters outside that domain for the generation of power, have already passed the house of representatives and are ready for immediate consideration and action by the senate. With the deepest earnestness I urge their prompt passage. In them both we turn our backs

GATES OF TRADE MUST BE OPENED.

The government must open these gates of trade, and open them wide, open them before it is altogether profitable to open them or altogether reasonable to ask private capital to open question of the government monopolizing the field. It should take action to make it certain that transportation at reasonable rates will be promptly provided, even where the carriage is not at first profitable, and then, when the carriage has secome sufficiently profitable to at tract and engage private capital and engage it in abundance, the government ought to withdraw.

It is not a question me, our legislation has done so little, of the government monopolizing the but also to the people of the nation field. It should take action to make as a whole, and we as clearly owe the other in fulfillment of our repeated promises that the water power of the country should in fact as well as in name be put at the disposal of great industries which can make economical and profitable use of it, the rights of the public being adequately guarded the while and monopoly in the use prevented. To have begun such measures and not completed them would indeed mar the record of this great congress very seriously. I hope and confidently believe that they will be completed.

SELF GOVERNMENT FOR FILIPINOS IS URGED.

President Says Senate Should Pass Measure Now Before Senate.

And there is another great piece of legislation which awaits and should receive the sanction of the senate. 1 mean the bill which gives a larger measure of self government to the people of the Philippines. How better in this time of anxious questioning and perplexed policy could we show our confidence in the principles of liberty as the source as well as the expression of life; how better could we demonstrate our own self possession and steadfastness in the courses of justice and disinterestedness than by thus going calmly forward to fulfill our promises to a dependent people, who will now look more anxiously than ever to see whether we have indeed the liberality, the unselfishness, the courage the faith we have boasted and profess-I cannot believe that the senate will let this great measure of constructive justice await the action of another congress. Its passage would nobly crown the record of these two years of memorable labor. But I think that you will agree with me that this does not complete the toll of our duty. How are we to earry our goods to the empty markets of which have spoken if we have not the ships? How are we to build up a great merce depends? And how are we get the ships if we wait for the trade to develop without them? To correct the many mistakes by which we have discouraged and all but destroyed the merchant marine of the country, to re trace the steps by watch we have, it seems almost deliberately, withdrawn our flag from the seas, except where here and there, a ship of war is bidden carry it or some wandering yacht dis plays it, would take a long time, and involve many detailed items of legisation, and the trade which we ought immediately to bandle would disap pear or find other channels while we debated the items.

The case is not unlike that which confronted us when our own continent was to be opened up to settlement and industry, and we needed long lines of callway, extended means of transportation prepared beforehand, if development was net to lag intolerably and wait interminably. We lavishly subsidized the building of transcontinental railroads. We look back upon that with regret now, because the subsidies led to many scandals of which we are ashamed, but we know that the railroads had to be built, and if we had it to do over again we should of course build them, but in another Therefore I propose another way of providing the means of transportation which next procede, not tardily follow, the development of our trade with our neighbor states of America It may seem a reversal of the natural order of things, but it is true that the routes of trade must be tolungs mental by nan spite and erding entities and moderns, torries new freely and profitably through

SAYS SHIPPING BILL IS VERY IMPORTANT.

It Should Be Passed to Prait by Open ed Gates of Trade

it certain that transportation at reasonable rates will be promptly provided, even where the carriage is not at first profitable, and then, when the carriage has become sufficiently profit able to attract and engage private cap ital and engage it in abundance, the government ought to withdraw 1 very earnestly hope that the congress will be of this opinion and that both houses will adopt this exceedingly im portant bill.

The great subject of rural credits still remains to be dealt with, and it is a matter of deep regret that the dif ficulties of the subject have seemed to render it impossible to complete a roll for passage at this session. But it can not be perfected yet, and therefore there are no other constructive meas ures the necessity for which I will at this time call your attention to, but would be negligent of a very mani fest duty were I not to call the atten tion of the senate to the fact that the proposed convention for safety at sea waits its confirmation and that the limit fixed in the convention itself for its acceptance is the last day of the present month The conference in which this convention originated was called by the United States. The rep resentatives of the United States play ed a very influential part indeed in framing the provisions of the proposed convention, and those provisions are in themselves for the most part admira ble. It would hardly be consisten with the part we have played in the whole matter to let it drop and go by the board as if forgotten and neglect ed. It was ratified in May last by the German government and in August by the parliament of Great Britain It marks a most hopeful and decided ad vance in international civilization. We should show our earnest good faith in a great matter by adding our own ac ceptance of it.

COASTS OF ALASKA SHOULD BE SURVEYED.

Present Dangers to Navigation Ought to Be Removed by Charts.

There is another matter of which must make special mention, if I am to discharge my conscience, lest it should escape your attention. It may seem very small thing. It affects only single item of appropriation But many human lives and many great en terprises bang upon it. It is the mat ter of making adequate provision for the survey and charting of our coasts It is immediately pressing and exident in connection with the immense coast line of Alaska, a coast line greater than that of the United States them selves, though it is also very impor taut indeed with regard to the older coasts of the continent

We cannot use our great Alaskan domain, ships will not ply thitber, if those coasts and their many bidden have been lost in threading what were survey and charting. We have used old vessels that were not big enough this vital matter trade if we have not the certain and or strong enough and which were so constant means of transportation upon nearly anseaworthy that our inspectors matter which, as I have said, seen importance has only to be looked into

GOVERNMENT ECONOMY IS VERY IMPERATIVE.

Urges Systematic Reorganization Gain Greater Efficiency.

Before I close may I say a few words upon two topics much discussed out of doors upon which it is highly important that our judgments should be clear, definite and steadfast?

One of these is economy in govern ment expenditures. The duty of ecen omy is not debatable. It is manifes and imperative. In the appropriation we pass we are spending the mone of the great people whose servants we are-not our own. We are trustees and responsible stewards in the spending The only thing debatable and upor which we should be careful to make our thought and purpose clear is the kind of economy demanded of us assert with the greatest confidence that the people of the United States are not jealous of the amount their government costs if they are sure that they get what they need and desire for the outlay, that the money is being spent for objects of which they are prove and that it is being applied with good business sense and unamagement

Governments grow piecemeal both in their tasks and in the means by which those tasks are to be performed and very few governments are organ ized, I venture to say, as wise and ex perienced business men would organize them if they bad a coon sheet of paper to write upon. Cortainly the govern | we reply. Most assuredly; to the ut ment of the United States is not think that it is generally agreed that there should be a systematic reorgani zation and reassembling of its parts o as to secure greater efficiency and effect considerable savings in expens But the amount of money saved in tha way would. I believe though no doub considerable in itself, ranning, it may be, into the millions be relatively small-small. I mean in proportion to the total necessary outlays of the gov ernment. It would be thoroughly worth effecting, as every saving would great or small Our duty is not altered by the sentof the saving. But my point is that the people of the United States do not wish to curtail the activities of this government. They wish rather, to en large them, and with every energement, with the mere growth, indeed. of the country !tself, there must come. of course, the mevitable increase of expense. The sort of economy we ought to practice may be effected, and ought to be effected by a careful study and assessment of the tasks to be per formed, and the money spent ought to be made to yield the best possible re turns in efficiency and achievement. And, like good stewards, we should so account for every dollar of our appro priations as to make it perfectly evi dent what it was spent for and in what way it was spent. It is not expenditure but extrava gance that we should fear being criti cised for, not paying for the legiti mate enterprises and undertakings of a great government whose people command what it should do, but adding what will benefit only a few or pouring money out for what need not have been undertaken at all or might have been postponed or better and more economically conceived and carried out. The nation is not niggardly; it is very generous. It will chide us only if we forget for whom we pay money out and whose money it is we pay. These are large and general standards. but they are not very difficult of application to particular cases.

PRESIDENT OPPOSED TO BIG STANDING ARMY.

Speaks Plainly and Directly on Question of National Defenses. The other topic I shall take leave to mention goes deeper into the principles of our national life and policy. It is the subject of national defense It cannot be discussed without first answering some very searching questions. It is said in some quarters that we are not prepared for war. What is meant by being prepared? Is it meant that we are not ready upon brief notice to put a nation in the field, a na tion of men trained to arms? Of course we are not ready to do that. and we shall never be in time of peace so long as we retain our present polit ical principles and institutions. And what is it that it is suggested we should be prepared to do-to defend ourselves against attack? We have al ways found means to do that and shall find them whenever it is neces sary without calling our people away from their necessary tasks to reuder compulsory military service in times

Allow me to speak with great plain ness and directness upon this great matter and to avow my convictions with deep earnestness. I have tried to know what America is, what her people think, what they are, what they most checish and hold dear. I hope that some of their finer passions are in my own heart some of the great con ceptions and desires which gave birth to this government and which have made the coice of this people a voice of peace and hope and liberty among the peoples of the world, and that, speaking my own thoughts, I shall, at least in part, speak theirs also, how ever faintly and inadequately, upon

We are at peace with all the world No one who speaks counsel based on fact or drawn from a lust and candled interpretation of realities can say that there is reason to fear that from any small, but is in reality very great its quarter our independence or the integ rity of our territory is threatened Dread of the power of any other na tion we are incapable of. We are not jealous of rivalry in the fields of commerce or of any other peaceful achieve ment. We mean to live our own lives as we will, but we mean also to let live. We are, indeed, a true friend to all the nations of the world, because we threaten none, covet the posses sions of none, desire the overthrow of

Our friendship can be accepted and is accepted without reservation, be cause it is offered in a spirit and for purpose which no one need ever question or suspect. Therein lies our greatness. We are the champions of peace and of concord. And we should be very jealous of this distinction which we have sought to earn. Just now we should be particularly jealous of it, because it is our dearest present hope that this character and reputation may presently, in God's providence, bring us un opportunity such as has seldom been conchsafed any nation. the opportunity to counsel and obtain peace in the world and reconciliation and a healing settlement of many a matter that has cooled and interrupted the friendship of nations. This is the time above all others when we should wish and resolve to keep our strength by self possession, our influence by preserving our ancient principles of action.

From the first we have had a clear and settled policy with regard to military establishments. We never have had, and while we retain our present principles and ideals we never shall have a large standing army. If asked, Are you ready to defend yourselves? most. And yet we shall not turn America into a military camp. will not ask our young men to spend the best years of their lives making soldiers of themselves. There is an other sort of energy in us It will snow how to declare itself and make tself effective should occasion arise. And especially when half the world is on fire we shall be careful to make our moral insurance against the spread of the conflagration very definite and cerain and adequate indeed

Let us remind ourselves, therefore, of the only thing we can do or will do We must depend in every time of nadonal peril, in the future as in the past, not upon a standing army nor yet upon a reserve army, but upon a cititenry trained and accustomed to arms

It will be right enough, right American policy, based upon out accustomed principles and practices, to provide a system by which every citizen who will volunteer for the training may be made familiar with the use of modern arms, the rudiments of drin and maneuver and the maintenance and -amtation of camps. We should encourage such training and make it a means of discipline which our young men will learn to value.

It is right that we should provide it not only, but that we should make it as attractive as possible, and so induce our young men to undergo it at such times as they can command a little freedom and can seek the physical development they need, for mere health's sake, if for nothing more. Every means by which such things can be stimulated is legitimate, and such a method smacks of true American ideas. It is right, too, that the national guard of the states should be developed and strengthened by every means which is not inconsistent with our obligations to our own people or with the established policy of our government, and this also not because the time or occa sion specially calls for such measures. but because it should be our constant policy to make these provisions for our national peace and safety.

More than this carries with it a reversal of the whole history and character of our polity. More than this, proposed at this time, permit me to say, would mean merely that we had lost our self possession, that we had been thrown off our bainnee by a war with which we have nothing to do, whose causes cannot touch us, whose very existence affords us opportunities of friendship and disinterested service which should make us ashamed of any thought of hostility or fearful prepara-

TRAINED CITIZENRY FOR DEFENSE.

We must depend in every time of national peril . upon a citizenry trained and accus-tomed to arms. • • We should encourage such training and make it a means of discipline which our young men will learn to value. . It is right, too, that the national guard of the states should be developed and strengthened by every means which is not inconsistent with our obligations to our own people or with the established policy of our gov-tion for trouble. This is assuredly the opportunity for which a people and a government like ours were raised up, the opportunity not only to speak, but actually to embody and exemplify the counsels of peace and amity and the lasting concord which is based on justice and fair and generous dealing

POWERFUL NAVY IS AMERICAN POLICY.

United States Will Continue to Remain

Strong on the Seas. A powerful pavy we have always regarded as our proper and natural means of defense, and it has always been of defense that we have thought never of aggression or of conquest. But who shall tell us now what sort of navy to build? We shall take leave to be strong upon the seas in the fu ture as in the past, and there will be no thought of offense or of provocation in that. Our ships are our natural bulwarks. When will the experts tell us just what kind we should construct. and when will they be right for ten years together, if the relative efficiency of craft of different kinds and uses continues to change as we have seen it change under our very eyes in these last few months?

But I turn away from the subject. It is not new. There is no new need to discuss it. We shall not after out attitude toward it because some among us are pervous and excited. We shall easily and sensibly agree upon a policy of defense. The question has not changed its aspects because the times are not normal. Our policy will not be for an occasion. It will be conceived as a permanent and settled thing which we will pursue at all seasons without baste and after a fashion perfectly consistent with the peace of the world, the abiding friendship of states and the unhampered freedom of all with whom we deal. Let there be no misconception. The country has been misinformed. We have not been negligent of national defense. We are not unmindful of the great responsibility resting upon us. We shall learn and profit by the lesson of every experience and every new circumstance, and what is needed will be adequately done.

I close, as I began, by reminding you of the great tasks and duties of peace which challenge our best powers and invite us to build what will last, the tasks to which we can address ourselves now and at all time with free hearted zest and with all the finest gifts of constructive wisdom we possess. To develop our life and our resources, to supply our own people and the people of the world as their need arises from the abundant plenty of our fields and our marts of trade, to enrich the commerce of our own states and of the world with the products of our mines, our farms and our factories, with the creations of our thought and the fruits of our character-this is what will hold our attention and our enthusiasm steadily now and in the years to come as we strive to show in our life as a nation what liberty and the inspirations of an emancipated spirit may do for men and for societies, for individuals, for states and for mankind.
